
Army of Anyone, Hurt, Droppin Daylight, and Neurosonic

Contributed by
Friday, 02 March 2007

On Saturday Feb. 10th Piere's had The Sno Core Tour with Army of Anyone, Hurt, Droppin Daylight, and Neurosonic. Army of Anyone is being called a new super group by many insiders and a new trend in the music business. "If this is a trend," says Filter frontman Richard Patrick, who has teamed with Stone Temple Pilots, DeLeo brothers to form Army of Anyone, "it's been going on since Led Zeppelin. Good point. The group, which features Patrick, brothers Dean and Robert DeLeo and drummer Ray Luzier of (David Lee Roth's) band, recorded their upcoming debut with veteran producer Bob Ezrin (Pink Floyd's 'The Wall'). With all that talent aboard, Patrick jokes that they prefer to call themselves a "super-duper group."

Neurosonic was a new group to the Grade A Lobby. Just a little background about them. Neurosonic is the scion of Jason Darr. As vehement and unapologetic as the creator, the music of Neurosonic bears its own blend of fierce vigor. Neurosonic's blatant, brutally honest musings are an intense build of hard rock, industrial reinforcement, standout lyrics, and big, catchy, killer choruses.

Nuevo symphonic prodigy Jason Darr has an expansive musical history, since inception Jason has surrounded himself with a vast cross section of music. His true awakening occurred with the purchase of 'The Beatles Past Masters Volumes I & II'. Beginning his journey with a guitar at thirteen and playing in several projects, Jason has taken the experiences acquired through out his life and used each one as building block; paving the way to Neurosonic.

Our old friends from HURT, J. Evan, Paul and, Josh came down to visit and Topher who is with Hurt now got this tattoo done. It was great to meet with old friends and meeting new friends in the lobby at Grade A. We took a lot of pictures and you can find them on the gallery page